

Sadness

By: Natasha and Troy

Sadness, sadness, so much sadness
It is heartbreaking, nevertheless
I hated seeing him go
But he should have listened
He had a mind of his own
What a shame, what a shame

Sadness, sadness, so much sadness
It started with us being trapped
Stuck in my own labyrinth, with my son
King Minos was not thinking
It was an easy escape
What a shame, what a shame

Sadness, sadness, so much sadness
We knew we had to leave,
But we didn't know how without being caught
The boats were under the King,
And swimming would be too far
What a shame, what a shame

Sadness, sadness, so much sadness
We found a way to escape
We needed feathers and wax to build it
Icarus gathered the feathers, I created
Planning our escape, unconventionally
We would fly, fly like a bird,
Leaving the King behind
What a shame, what a shame

Sadness, Sadness, so much sadness
They were done, they were completed
We were ready to leave
He was warned, warned he was
Told not to go too high,
Nor to go too low
What a shame, what a shame

Sadness, Sadness, so much sadness
He flew so high, but why
He started to fly,

Then he started to fall,
Hit the water like a ball
What a shame, what a shame

Sadness, Sadness, so much sadness
When his father flew away
Away, away his son sank
Later on they found him dead
On an island, named after him
What a shame, what a shame
